Objectives

To provide a dynamic platform for researchers, academicians, industry professionals, and students to exchange ideas, present innovative research, and discuss recent advancements in chemistry and its diverse applications in fields such as environmental science, energy, and materials science. The seminar aims to foster interdisciplinary collaboration, promote scientific inquiry, and underscore the role of chemistry in tackling contemporary global challenges.

Abstract:

The National Seminar on Chemistry and its Applications (NSCA-2026) is a scientific event that brings together researchers, faculty members, doctoral students, engineers, and professionals from both academic and industrial sectors at the national level. It aims to promote the exchange of ideas on recent advances in both fundamental and applied chemistry, while strengthening the connections between academic research and industrial innovation.

In view of the challenges related to energy, the environment, health, and advanced materials, this seminar provides a platform for reflection and collaboration aimed at developing sustainable technological solutions. It also serves as a forum for presenting and discussing research on the synthesis, characterization, modeling, and applications of organic and inorganic materials.
